

Updated Spring 2022

DOE must approve certificate programs for which students are eligible for federal aid 90 days in advance of advertising the program or enrolling students. The notification to DOE must explain the institution's determination that the new program will meet employment market needs and describe how the program was reviewed or approved by, or developed in conjunction with external groups and its accrediting agency.

